Snowshoe

YOU WILL NEED A BIGGER MAP

Pocahontas County has seen a lot of recent growth in its already extensive trail network, and is now offering truly big ride options. So extensive, the region has been crowned a Silver Level Ride Center by IMBA. Local brown-powder chasers get rowdy on the Tea Creek trails, and families love to explore the more mellow options around Green Bank and the various rail trails for scenic excursions.

FEATURED TRAILS

SL SHAVERS LAKE Trail: One of Snowshoe's most family-friendly hiking options, this 1.6-mile loop trail circles Shavers Lake with minimal elevation change along the way. The Lake Trail offers spectacular views of the Snowshoe Basin as well as ample opportunities to see wildlife. To access the trail, take the Ballhooter Lift down to the lake, and look for the trailhead to your right.

CM 6000 STEPS or BAIL OUT to the FIRE TOWER: Perched high atop Cheat Ridge, the Snowshoe Fire Tower offers breathtaking 360-degree views. And there is more than one way to get there: Bail Out is the shortest route, but also the most strenuous, climbing quickly from the Lake Trail straight up the ridge to the fire tower. 6,000 Steps follows an old rail grade, climbing gradually from the bottom of the Soaring Eagle Lift to the Cheat Mountain Ridge Trail. Combine both trails for an epic 3+ mile loop.

ADVENTURE SAFELY

BE PREPARED

Many of Snowshoe's backcountry trails are in remote areas, often without cell phone service. The backcountry trails are not patrolled nor maintained daily. Be observant of potential obstacles and hazards. Hike or ride with a partner.

KEEP YOUR DISTANCE

Never approach or feed wildlife. Confrontations are best handled by staying calm and backing away slowly.

ENCHANTED FOREST: As the name implies, the Enchanted Forest is a magical trail, full of mossy rocks, roots, and native growth that follows a remote ridge. To access the trail, start by traversing the ski slopes on Black Run Road for approximately 2 miles to the beginning of Enchanted Forest. Follow the trail for another 1.1 miles before either turning around and heading back the way you came or descending the Headset Adjustment ridge and linking back to Black Run Road via Lower Beaver Dam, for a 6.3-mile loop.

THE AIRPORT: Located on the backside of the Silver Creek area, this hike serves up some wild and wonderful panoramic views of Snowshoe, Slatyfork, and beyond. From the Silver Creek trailhead, take Airport Runway to the top of Silver Creek. Continue through the trees past the Ski Patrol shack behind the Flying Eagle lift until you pop out on top at the Airport. After you take in the view, return via Upper Beaver Dam, and then circle back to where you started via Black Run Road for a 3.3-mile loop.
